Foreword

Innovation has no latitude or longitude, which we experienced in going over the applications and as path breaking it is originating from Tier 2 & 3 cities.

For the first time at TiE Global Summit, we launched TGS100 for recognizing 100 emerging startups, wherein the stage was set globally, the domains were defined, a simplified process for start-ups be it early or growth stages to apply and a well defined streamlined evaluation process.

The humble intent of TGS 100 is to provide the start-ups a global stage for showcasing to Investors, opportunity for partnerships with Industry & its Leaders, exposure to successful entrepreneurs and digital outreach through the TiE platform that has a world- wide audience. This we achieved from attracting application from 14 countries, 80 cities out of which 76% are from Tier 2 & 3. Though we started journey to identify 100 emerging start-up, during the whole process and the eminent Jury evaluation we identified and are recognizing 68 emerging start-up globally.

This humongous task was made possible in collaboration with TiE Global Ecosystem , I-Venture @ ISB, Startup India, NASSCOM and T-Hub, the reflection which is presented in this first edition TGS100 – recognizing emerging start-ups globally – The New Alternative Asset

Recognition Process

The evolution of TGS 100 was a journey from last 6 months as this was the very first time such an attempt was being made which involved having brainstorming session with multiple stakeholders – TiE Global Team, Investor community, Industry leaders and Academia to define the structure and form.

The selection of the 100 emerging start-ups was a stimulating task but the process becomes challenging. The outreach extended globally to invite application from various sectors such as AgriTech & Food, Defence & Aerospace, EdTech, FinTech & Insure Tech, Green Energy, Health & Life Sciences, Hyperlocal & E-Commerce, Travel & Animation & Media and Web 3.0 & Gaming & Metaverse. Application were invited to apply in the online portal. A two step evaluation process was adapted and done by TiE Global Charter Members and an eminent Jury.

The online portal was used to evaluate, review, analyze and rank the companies basing the seven stages that include problem identification, innovation, financial stability, scalability, roadmap, team, value proposition, and social impact.

In the first level the applications were screened and rated based on the quantitative metrics derived from the online portal and weightage was assigned to each start-up basing the value they brought to the table, the problems they are trying to solve and the Innovation Quotient. The second round done by the eminent Jury consisting of all the stake holders identified the 68 start-ups for the recognition in this first edition of TGS 100.
